Powerful Team USA roster on tap for London

INDIANAPOLIS - Four reigning Olympic champions and eight current world champions highlight the Team USA roster nominated to the U.S. Olympic Committee by USA Track & Field. A roster of 123 men and women stands ready to represent the U.S. in track competition August 3 - 12 in London.

Notable for its depth across a range of events, the roster features 28 athletes - 16 men and 12 women - who already own individual world or Olympic gold medals. Nineteen are American record holders and one is a world record holder.

2008 Olympic gold medalists set to defend their titles are Lashawn Merritt (400m), Angelo Taylor (400m hurdles), Dawn Harper (100m hurdles) and Stephanie Brown-Trafton (discus).

Fresh off of 2011 world championship titles, eight athletes will look to take their supremacy to the Olympic level: Jason Richardson (110m hurdles), Christian Taylor (triple jump), Jesse Williams (high jump), Trey Hardee (decathlon), Carmelita Jeter (100m), Jenny Simpson (1500m), Lashinda Demus (400m hurdles) and Brittney Reese (long jump).

Amy Acuff is the veteran of the team, as she makes her fifth trip to the Olympics. This will also mark the fourth Olympic Games for Abdi Abdirahman, Bernard Lagat, Aretha Thurmond and Angelo Taylor. Both Acuff and Thurmond have been Olympians since the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta.

Ashton Eaton owns the world record indoors in the heptathlon and set the outdoor decathlon world record in spectacular fashion at the Olympic Team Trials.

Fun Facts about Team USA

OLYMPIC COUPLES - While Ashton Eaton will represent the USA in the decathlon, his fiancé, Brianne Theisen, will represent our northern neighbors as she competes for Team Canada in the heptathlon. Jeff and Tiffany Porter are both competing in the short hurdles; however, they will sport different uniforms as Jeff runs for Team USA and Tiffany runs for Team Great Britain. Becky Holiday will be joined on the U.S. roster by her boyfriend Tim Hornsby. In their multi-sport relationship, Holliday will compete in the pole vault, while Hornsby is entered in the men’s 200m kayak race.

FROM YOUNG TO NOT SO YOUNG - Trevor Barron is the youngest member of Team USA’s track & field roster at 19-years-old, while Derek Miles is the eldest member of the team at 39-years-old.

LET THEM EAT CAKE - Three athletes will turn 30 during the Olympic Games. Amanda Smock’s birthday will take place during the Opening Ceremonies on July 27, followed by Lolo Jones on Aug. 5 and Tyson Gay on Aug. 9. Also celebrating birthdays will be: Molly Huddle (turns 28 on Aug. 1), Tia Brooks (turns 22 on Aug. 2) and Cyrus Hostetler (turns 26 on Aug. 8).

“HOMETOWN’ FAVORITES - Both Stephanie Brown-Trafton and Will Claye have family in London who will be cheering them on.

DOUBLE TAKE – Ryan Bailey is listed twice on Team USA’s Olympic roster, but it is no mistake. One Ryan Bailey is competing in the 100m in track & field, and the other will take to the pool on the U.S. water polo team.
Average Age of Olympic Teams

The 2012 Olympic Roster for Team USA boasts the second highest average age of all-time. Only the 2000 Olympic team in Athens had a higher average age.

University of Miami head women’s track and field coach Amy Deem has built the school’s women’s track program from modest beginnings into one of the nation’s elite. Deem has guided 41 student-athletes to a combined 147 All-America honors and 12 individual National Championships, including 2009 NCAA Indoor 200-meter Champion Murielle Ahoure, 2008 NCAA Indoor 400-meter Champion Krista Simkins, 2006 NCAA Outdoor triple jump Champion Tabia Charles, 2005 NCAA Indoor and Outdoor shot put champion Kim Barrett and 2004 NCAA 100-meter Champion Laury Williams. About Ryan

With world record holder, world champion and Olympic gold medalist Usain Bolt of Jamaica proving in recent years that there is a place in the world for tall sprinters, Ryan Bailey in 2010 showed by his startling success that tall sprinters may become the norm instead of an exception. Bailey, who stands 6 feet 4 inches (Bolt is 6-5), had an amazing breakthrough season in 2010 in lowering his personal best in the 100m to 9.88 seconds from his previous best of 10.05 in 2009, and his 200m career best to 20.10 down from his previous PR of 20.45 in 2009. Bailey was academically ineligible to accept a Division I scholarship out of Douglas McKay High School in Salem, Ore., where he was first a football player. Bailey, who is the youngest of eight children, first stepped onto a track as a sophomore, but his career was abbreviated due to injuries and poor grades. He finally had the opportunity to show what he could do as a prep sprinter in 2007 when he won Oregon state titles in the 100m and 200m, setting state records in the process. He spent one year out of school entirely, working with his high school and current coach, John Parks, and spent half a year at Rend Lake College College in Illinois, where he won junior college national titles. His 2009 season also included a broken wrist, suffered when he fell at the end of a victorious 100-meter race in Tennessee. Bailey underwent surgery on the wrist in the fall, and also became the father of a baby boy, Tyree, an experience he says is "probably one of the best things that ever happened to me."

Barrett grew up in New York, where she first started high jumping her freshman year of high school. Barrett’s move paid off as she became a two-time Texas state champion and earned a scholarship to Arizona. In only her sophomore year of college, Barrett exploded on the international high jump scene. After winning victories at NCAA Indoor and Outdoor as well as the USA Championships, Barrett traveled out of the country for the first time to win the World University Games and advance to finish 10th at the World Championships. Barrett is majoring in theatre arts with a minor in creative writing. She wrote and produced the first ever black history month play on the campus of Arizona. About Trevor
Barron is the fastest junior race walker in U.S. history, holding national records at distances from one mile to 20 kilometers. He began race walking at age 9, looking to find a way to join his sister Tricia who was a skilled hurdler and jumper, at the USATF National Junior Olympics. After placing second nationally in his age group in 2002, he won gold medals the next four years, breaking the national youth boys (age 13-14) record in 2006. Two weeks after that record-breaking race, Barron entered the Children’s Hospital of Pittsburgh for brain surgery to curb epileptic seizures that had plagued him since age 8 and had interrupted his promising career as a competitive swimmer. Children’s Hospital neurologist Deborah Holder was able to identify the dysfunctional portion of his brain that was causing the problems, and Barron has been seizure-free since recovering from the surgery. At age 15, he won the U.S. junior men’s trial for the 2008 World Race Walking Cup in Cheboksary, Russia. While he was the youngest entrant in the race, he placed 42nd among 63 competitors. When returning home, he discontinued race walking citing the unfavorable attention often accorded the discipline. In November 2008, he resumed race walk training while becoming a home-school student so that he could train with coach and two-time Olympian Tim Seaman. His renewed dedication quickly paid off as he broke U.S. junior records at distances of 5 and 20 kilometers. After his return to race walking, Barron quickly continued his record-setting pace as he broke the U.S. high-school mark for the one-mile walk with a time of 6:03.48.

About Janet
Bawcom has become one of the best American women on the road running scene, and has parlayed her talent on the roads into a spot on the U.S. 10,000m squad for the 2012 Olympic Games. Bawcom finished 7th at the Olympic Trials, but as one of only three women with the Olympic A standard, her spot on the team was a near guarantee. Earlier in 2012, Bawcom finished fifth at the marathon Trials. Bawcom was born in Kenya and became eligible to represent the U.S. in the fall of 2011. Bawcom first took an interest in running after a chance encounter with Kenyan gold medalist Peter Rono who helped train her and get a scholarship to Harding University in Arkansas. In her first 5 km race at Harding, Bawcom barely broke 20 minutes, but when she graduated in 2005, she had eight NCAA All-American titles and three Division II national championships to her name. Bawcom graduated with a degree in health care management, and is pursuing her R.N. license. Bawcom competed for Harding University as Janet Cherobon will be the first Harding athlete to ever compete in the Olympics.

About Amanda
Bingson was a surprise qualifier for the 2012 Olympic Team after placing second in the U.S. Trials and earning the Olympic A standard with a PR of more than two feet. Bingson didn’t plan to make the team in 2012 and had her sights set on Rio in 2016. She had never heard of the hammer throw in 2008, and only picked up the event in 2009. After joining UNLV's track team as a walk-on, Bingson progressed to win four Mountain West Conference outdoor conference titles. Bingson competed in gymnastics for 13 years before joining her high school track team. A friend encouraged her to try the throws, and while she initially wasn’t interested, she saw a cute boy throwing and decided to give it a try. That boy was Ben Jacobs who now plays for the Cleveland Browns. She majored in sports psychology at UNLV and will complete her degree in the fall of 2012. Known for competing with a flower in her hair.

About Brittany
With her sixth and final throw at the 2012 Olympic Trials, Borman punched her ticket to London when she threw a personal best of 61.51m/201-9, finishing in first place and achieving the Olympic ‘A’ Standard. A St. Louis area native, Borman tried nearly every event by the time she entered Festus High School. Competing in the shot put, discus, long jump, 100m hurdles, triple jump and high jump, Borman graduated from Festus in 2008. She left as a four-time All-Metro in track and a Class 3 state champion in the shot put, discus and high jump. Her performances were impressive enough to earn a scholarship to UCLA, where she was ready to follow in her childhood idol Jackie Joyner-Kersee’s footsteps as a heptathlete. But Borman stayed only one season before transferring to Oklahoma where she ditched the heptathlon and began concentrating on only the javelin and discus. Borman thrived at Oklahoma, winning back-to-back NCAA national titles in 2011 and 2012 and becoming a three-time Big 12 outdoor champ in the javelin. Borman first got involved in track and field at the age of six with her two sisters, Danielle and Breanne. Her father played football at Southeast Missouri State.

About Tia
If Brooks had her way in high school, she never would have picked up the shot. But thankfully her coach John Makinen talked Brooks out of competing in the sprints and had her compete in the throws. During her freshman year of college, she had an incident during a weightlifting session where she suddenly lost feeling in her legs and had to be carried out of the weight room on a spine-board. After medical evaluation, it was determined that Brooks had two bulging discs, degenerative disc disorder and a narrowing of her spine. While a doctor suggested that Brooks choose a different sport, she was not deterred and after a year off and lots of rehab and strengthening work, she came back in 2010 to finish 4th at USA Outdoors. Since then, Brooks has been on a roll with two NCAA titles and now a spot on Team USA for the 2012 Olympics. She will be joined in London by her Oklahoma teammate Brittany Borman who won the javelin at the U.S. Olympic Trials.

About Jillian
Going from “guide” to “spin” technique has catapulted Camarena-Williams from national champion to the American indoor and outdoor record holder and a World Outdoor bronze medalist. She qualified for her first Olympic Team in the women’s shot put with her third-place finish at the 2008 U.S. Olympic Team Trials. It was Camarena-Williams’ first competition of the 2008 Outdoor season and came less than three months after she had back surgery to repair a herniated disc. A multi-talented thrower, she holds the sixth best throw in the discus on Stanford’s all-time list. In high school, Camarena-Williams gained All-America honors while at Woodland High School where she won the 2000 California state discus title and the 1999 state shot put crown. Camarena-Williams married Dustin Williams on September 5, 2009. Dustin is a physiotherapist who will also be in London as a member of Team USA’s medical staff.

You need to go all the way back to 2003, when Christian Cantwell was a senior at Missouri, to find a time when he wasn't ranked in the top five in the world in the shot put for either indoor or outdoor competition. In that span he recorded the farthest throw in the world four different seasons both indoors and outdoors. In 2010 alone Cantwell competed in 20 meets where he threw the shot more than 70 feet and won the inaugural IAAF Diamond League Championship in his event. In 2009 he ended the outdoor season with the three best throws in the world. In 2006, Cantwell posted the top-three outdoor throws in the world, and six of the top eight throws. In 2004 he posted the top four throws in the world that outdoor season. About Michelle
Now a two-time Olympian, Carter has excelled at the national level for more than a decade. Carter first donned the USA jersey at the 2001 World Youth Championships where she won silver, in 2004 she won gold at the IAAF World Junior Championships, and in 2008, she followed in the footsteps of her father Michael Carter, by making her Olympic Team. After finishing as the runner-up at the 2012 Olympic Trials, Carter was presented her silver medal by gospel artist Kirk Franklin. Carter has known Franklin most of her life, as she grew up attending the same church. Carter is the national prep record-holder in the shot put at 16.73m/54-10.75, while her father, Michael, set the still-standing national boys prep record of 81-3.5 in 1979. She was a four-time Texas 4A state champion in the shot put, also set state record in the discus. Her father Michael was a standout football player and shot putter at SMU, who threw the 12-pound shot put over 80 feet in high school and won three Super Bowls as a nose guard for the San Francisco 49ers. She has one sister, D'Andra, who was a thrower at Texas Tech, and one brother, Michael, Jr.

About Matthew
Matthew Centrowitz surprised everyone except himself with a bronze medal at the 2011 World Outdoor Championships, becoming the youngest American to medal in that event. The former University of Oregon Duck turned pro after 2011 and holds school records in the 1,500m and distance medley relay. An NCAA champion in 2011, Centrowitz placed third in the 1,500m at the NCAA Championships in 2010 to be a part of a 1-2-3 sweep for the Ducks. He was the first Oregon Duck undergrad since Steve Prefontaine to win a USA Outdoor championship and holds two school records. His father, Matthew, was a two-time Olympian and an All-American distance runner at Oregon. He majored in sociology.

About Will
Just after his 20th birthday, Will Claye qualified for the 2011 World Outdoor Championships in both the long jump and the triple jump and went on to win bronze in Daegu. As a freshman at the University of Oklahoma (transferring to Florida after his sophomore season), Claye closed out an impressive first year as a collegiate athlete at the 2009 Pan Am Junior Championships in Trinidad & Tobago with his sixth major triple jump title of the year after winning both the Big 12 indoor and outdoor crowns, the NCAA Midwest Regional, the NCAA Championship and the U.S. Junior National Championships. Claye’s Pan Am Junior Champs winning triple jump of 16.57m/54-4.50 came on his first attempt of the competition. Claye skipped his final semester of high school to enroll early at OU. He’s a two-time Arizona state champion in the triple jump. He was the first Arizona high school athlete to triple jump over 50 feet and holds the Arizona triple jump record. He and Christian Taylor, his teammate while at Florida, are proving to be the next big duo in the triple jump after each won medals at both 2011 World Outdoors and 2012 World Indoors. Claye’s Florida coach Mike Holloway called him “the best athlete you have never heard of.” Claye now trains at the Olympic Training Center in Chula Vista, Calif.

About Kerron

In 2009, Clement joined National Track & Field Hall of Famer Edwin Moses (1983, 1987) and Felix Sanchez of the Dominican Republic (2001, 2003) as the only men ever to win the world 400m hurdles title twice, with all three accomplishing the feat in consecutive years. At the University of Florida Clement shocked the track world when he ran 44.57 seconds to win the 2005 NCAA indoor 400-meter title, breaking Michael Johnson’s WR of 44.63, set in 1995. He also holds the NCAA meet record in the 400m hurdles (47.56). The 19-year-old sophomore then anchored Florida’s 4x400 meter relay to a collegiate record 3:03.51, previously. In addition to track, Clement is a model and actor and appeared in a music video for Beyonce. In 2007, at just 22 years of age, Clement was ranked No. 1 in the world by Track & Field News.

About Emma
Coburn continued the Colorado Buff line of steeplechasers to excel on the national and international stage. In 2011, Coburn became the second CU athlete to win the women’s USA steeple title while still in college. Following in the footsteps of her former teammate Jenny Simpson, Coburn bested the field of professional runners to win her first national title in 9:44.11. In 2012, Coburn took a redshirt year to focus her attention on the Olympic Trials, and it paid off as she won the Trials to secure her spot on the London team. Coburn will be joined in London by her current teammate Shalaya Kipp who took third at the trials. A lifelong Colorado resident, Coburn has volunteered with Living Journeys Cancer Foundation and the Mountain Adventure Kid’s Camp while in high school.

About Kim
Conley delivered a big kick to finish third at the Olympic Trials and to nab the needed Olympic A standard by two-tenths of a second in order to make it to London on Team USA. When Conley graduated college in 2008, she had a 16:23 PR and never made it to NCAA nationals – one year she had food poisoning, another year she lost her shoe during the regional meet. But Conley continued to train while joining the coaching staff of UC Davis and dropped her 5,000m PR by more than a minute from 2008 to 2012.

About Jessica

After competing as one of the nation's top hammer throwers for more than six years, Cosby added her name to the record books with her American record throw at the 2012 Prefontaine Classic (74.19m/243-5). After the 2008 Olympics where Cosby did not record a mark in competition, she came back on the International level to finish 7th and 11th at the 2009 and 2011 World Championships respectively. Cosby made her second Olympic team after finishing second at the U.S. Olympic Trials hammer event held on the campus of Nike. In high school, she was a four-time Los Angeles City shot put champion (1997-2000) and placed second in shot put at the 2000 California State Championships (14.95m/49-0.75) and Golden West Invitational (14.86m/48-9). In 2001 Cosby became the first athlete in U.S. history to win both the shot put and hammer throw at the U.S. Junior Championships. Cosby serves as the volunteer assistant coach for San Diego State. Cosby is engaged and her wedding is planned for two weeks after the Olympic Games. She has said that if she wins a medal, she will wear it down the aisle.

Davila broke 5:00 for the mile as a high school freshman and has quietly and steadily worked her way up to being an Olympic marathoner. She was thrust into the spotlight after her thrilling finish at the 2011 Boston marathon. Davila battled for the win with eventual winner Caroline Kilel through the final stretch of the course and came in second by only a two second margin. Davila’s performance was one for the record books as she clocked the fastest time ever by an American woman at the Boston Marathon in 2:22:38. After her success in Boston she was invited to throw the first pitch at a Detroit Tigers game. Ran track and cross country in high school in addition to playing soccer. Deena Kastor is one of her running role models and lists collecting whiskey and tapestries as her hobbies. Engaged to fellow marathoner Ryan Linden.

About Sharon

Originally focused on the high jump, Day has transitioned into being one of the country’s top heptathletes, and in 2011 won her first U.S. Outdoor title in the hept. She made the Olympic Team in the high jump in 2008 and moved to the heptathlon roster in 2012. Day won her first collegiate high jump crown with a school-record performance at the 2005 NCAA Outdoor Championships in Sacramento. In 2005 she suffered fractured metatarsals that forced her to redshirt the 2006 season. She cleared the same height as the silver medalist at the 2004 World Junior Championships, but because she had more misses, Day settled for bronze. She also played the forward position in Soccer for Cal Poly and was named 2003 Big West Conference Freshman of the Year.

About Janay
DeLoach admits that she had a bit of a culture shock when she went to college at Colorado State after her high school career at Eielson AFB in Alaska. DeLoach’s high school team would only compete in a handful of meets each year, sometimes as few as only two. DeLoach dabbled in many areas as her school’s top basketball scorer and even a cheerleader. During DeLoach’s freshman campaign at CSU, she says that she was mainly competing for the scholarship money, but didn’t love the sport. It wasn’t until her sophomore year when she went to a meet at Cal Berkley and competed against Olympian Grace Upshaw that she not only realized she had a future in the sport, but also fell in love with the long jump. Fast forward to 2011, and DeLoach finally realized her dream to represent Team USA at the World Championships to finish sixth in the world. DeLoach met her future husband, Patrick Soukup, while both were competing for Colorado State’s track and field team. They plan to wed in September, 2012. DeLoach received her bachelor’s degree in psychology and human development and is pursuing her master’s degree in occupational therapy.

About Lashinda

Demus has been a fixture among the nation’s top hurdlers for nearly a decade. Now at the peak of her career and a mother of five-year-old twin boys, she enjoys the support of her mother, who is her coach, and her husband, who serves as her agent. In 2008 attempted an unusual comeback from maternity, having given birth to twin boys in June 2007. At the 2008 Olympic Trials she went from first to fourth in the final stretch, not quite at full strength since giving birth. But 2012 finds her at the top of her game as the reigning world champion, American record holder and Olympic Trials champion. As a South Carolina freshman in 2002, Demus anchored the Gamecocks 4x400m relay squad of Tiffany Ross, Tacita Bass and Demetria Washington to the 2002 NCAA title in collegiate record time of 3:26.46. She departed the South Carolina team during the 2003 season. A sensational high school athlete, Demus was named a 2001 Track and Field News All-American in five events (100 hurdles, 300 hurdles, 4x1, 4x4, sprint medley). She set the national record in the 300m hurdles (39.00). Twins run in her family - her grandfather is a twin, and his mother had 20 children total, with four sets of twins.

About Diamond
Dixon, who celebrated her 20th birthday during the Olympic Trials, is one of the youngest members of Team USA's track and field roster. But she is not without experience, this will be Dixon’s fourth international team after traveling to World Juniors, World University Games and Pan-Am Juniors. On her college bio for Kansas, she listed her goal as competing in the Olympics, and she made that come true after her 5th place finish in the finals of the 400m at the Olympic Trials. Dixon will be member of Team USA’s 4x400m relay pool.

About Allyson

A past 100m, 200m and 400m champion, in 2012 Felix was faced with which races to focus on for London, and she went with the 100 and 200m. She made history at the 2009 IAAF World Outdoor Championships by becoming the first woman ever to win three world 200-meter titles. In 2007 Felix became the second woman in history to win three gold medals at one World Championships (200m, 4x100m and 4x400m). In 2005, she went undefeated in the 200m, winning the world title and recorded the three fastest times in the world. As an 18-year-old, she won her first Olympic medal in the women’s 200m at the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens and secured the world junior record at 22.18. Felix actually ran faster at a meet in Mexico City in 2003 (22.11), but meet organizers had not arranged for drug testing at the meet and the time wasn’t ratified by the IAAF. Her winning time at the 2004 Olympic Trials 200m (22.28) was faster than every winning time at the Olympic Games through 1976. Her father, Paul, is an ordained minister who teaches New Testament Greek at the Master’s Seminary in Sun Valley, Calif. Her mother, Marleen, is an elementary school teacher. High school teammates called her “chicken legs” due to her long, spindly legs. She didn’t start running track until her freshman year of high school. USA Today reported that she had leg-pressed 700 pounds on a machine and dead-lifted 245 pounds. Felix was a prep media sensation and a current star, having had front-page articles in Sports Illustrated and USA Today, among other publications.

About Shalane
Flanagan is an extremely versatile distance runner, with multiple U.S. titles from the 3,000m to the marathon bearing her name. Flanagan most recently secured her spot on the U.S. team for London by winning the 2012 U.S. Olympic Team Trials – Marathon with a Trials record of 2:25:38 in only her second marathon. At the 2008 Olympics, Flanagan overcame stomach problems that threatened her participation and hot temperatures to win the 10,000m bronze and break her own American record. Flanagan is only the second American woman to ever win an Olympic medal at 10,000m, joining Lynn Jennings, who won the bronze in 1992. Flanagan has also one of the U.S.’s top cross country runners for more than a decade from her 2000 win of the USA Junior XC Championships through her 2011 individual bronze medal at the IAAF World XC Championships where she also helped to lead the U.S. women to a team bronze. While she was injured in 2006, it was discovered that Flanagan was born with an extra bone in her foot. Both of Flanagan’s parents are accomplished runners. Her mother Cheryl Treworgy competed on the U.S. World Cross Country teams in 1968 (11th), 1969 (4th), 1970 (18th), 1974 (28th) 1976 (38th) and is also a former women’s marathon world record holder. Her father Steve Flanagan also participated on a U.S. World XC team and boasted a marathon PR of 2:18. Flanagan is married to Steve Edwards who was a track and field athlete at UNC. Flanagan participated in soccer and swimming in high school. Her training partner Kara Goucher is also on the 2012 U.S. Olympic marathon team.

About Hyleas
Fountain in 2012 tries to come back from a neck injury that forced her to pull out of the 2011 USA Outdoor Championships before the final 800m event. She tied the American record in the women’s pentathlon at the 2010 World Indoor Championships with her score of 4,753 points, finishing in fourth place. Fountain became the only American woman other than Jackie Joyner-Kersee to win an Olympic medal in the heptathlon, in 2008. Initially she was the bronze medalist, but was moved up from third to second when original silver medalist Lyudmila Blonska failed a drug test. Her time of 12.65 in the 100m hurdles at the 2008 Olympic Trials, worth 1,178 points on scoring tables, broke three records: American record, heptathlon 100m hurdles (12.69, Jackie Joyner-Kersee, 1988, Seoul); Olympic Trials record, heptathlon 100m hurdles (12.71, Jackie Joyner-Kersee, 1988, Indianapolis); and USA National Championship record, heptathlon 100m hurdles (12.77, Jackie Joyner-Kersee, 1991, NYC). Not only an NCAA heptathlon champion, Fountain is also an outstanding long jumper, triple jumper, high jumper and hurdler. Credits her mother for introducing her to the sport at age seven. With Jackie Joyner-Kersee as her idol, Fountain says that in school she always wrote papers on her and Wilma Rudolph.

About Kara
After taking time off in 2010 to give birth to her son, Goucher came back to form in 2011 in running a personal best time at the Boston Marathon. She also ran her second-fastest 10,000m time ever to qualify for the world team in 2011. For the first time in 24 years, Americans appeared on both podiums at the 2009 Boston Marathon as Kara Goucher was third in the women’s race (2:32:25) and Ryan Hall third among the men. Goucher turned in a history-making American performance by finishing third in the 2008 NYC Marathon. Crossing the line in 2:25:53, it was the fastest marathon debut ever by an American woman, the fastest time ever by an American at the ING New York City Marathon and marked the first time in 14 years that an American woman placed in the top three in New York. Goucher made history at the 2007 IAAF World Outdoor Championships by winning the first American medal ever in the women’s 10,000 meters. After years of injury and frustration, the Gouchers moved from Boulder to Portland, Oregon, in the fall of 2004, where both Kara and her husband, Adam, have flourished. Formerly Kara Grgas-Wheeler, she started running in the seventh grade because she wanted to win an award at her junior high school. To get the award, she needed academics, arts and athletics. She chose cross country because they didn’t make cuts. She was a psychology major at Colorado. In 2001, she married fellow Colorado alum, distance runner Adam Goucher. Gave birth to son Colt in September 2010. She will be on the 2012 Olympic team in the marathon with teammate Shalane Flanagan.

del the world record of 9,026 points set by the Czech Republic’s Roman Sebrle in 2001. On his way to a new world record, Eaton set two individual decathlon record in the 100m and long jump. Since 2008, he has improved his PR by 598 points, including a 263-point improvement in 2011, his first season as a professional. When Ashton Eaton broke Dan O’Brien’s heptathlon mark in 2010, he broke a record set when he was just five years old. He has since broken his own world record two more times. Eaton qualified for his first World Outdoor Championships team in 2009 where he placed 18th. With quick, explosive events and just one throwing event, he indicated the heptathlon he is best suited for, which he owns the world record in. At the 2008 Pac-10 Outdoor Championships, Easton scored points for the Oregon Ducks in a total of five different events (decathlon, 200m, long jump, 4x100m and 4x400m). One of only four Ducks to ever break 8,000 points in the decathlon, as a prep star in Mountain View, Ore., he won 2006 Oregon 4A state titles as a senior in 400 meters (48.69) and long jump (24-0 1/4w), and was runner-up in the 200 meters (22.10) to land athlete of the meet honors. Also lettered in football as a running back and wrestled. His grandfather, James Eaton, was a Michigan State halfback. Engaged to Oregon heptathlete and Canadian Olympian Brianne Theisen.

About Justin

Gatlin made his return as one of the top American sprinters in 2011 after serving a doping suspension from 2006-10. When Gatlin won gold medals in both the 100m and 200m at the 2005 World Outdoor Championships, he was just the second man in history to win both those races at the same World Championships and his winning margin of 0.17 seconds in the 100m was the biggest in World Championships history. At the USA Outdoor Championships in 2005 Gatlin became the first American sprinter to make the 100m, 200m double at the national championships since Kirk Baptiste in 1985. His personal best in the 100m of 9.85 to win the 2004 Olympic gold medal was the second fastest in Olympic history at that time. In just two seasons, when he then left to run professionally, Gatlin won six NCAA titles competing for the University of Tennessee. As a freshman for the Volunteers his time of 10.08 then matched a USA Junior record.

About Tyson
The second fastest man in history, Gay in 2012 looks to return to full strength after running with chronic injuries for years. During the 2010 season, Gay handed world and Olympic champion and world record holder Usain Bolt his first 100m loss in two years. He also posted the 200m world record (19.41) for a straightaway, equaled the world leading time in the 100 meters of 9.78 seconds, and won the inaugural IAAF Diamond League Championship at 100 meters. The American record holder in the 100m, the time of 9.69 seconds sits as the second-best performance of all time, equaling Usain Bolt’s then-world record from the 2008 Olympic Games. He remains the fourth fastest man ever for 200m behind Bolt, Johan Blake and Michael Johnson. Gay first established the American record in 2008 with a time of 9.77 and his wind-aided time of 9.68 at the Olympic Trials that season was the fastest time in history under any conditions at the time. Due to a hamstring injury at the 2008 Olympic Trials, Gay could only run heats of 100m at the Olympic Games and failed to make the finals. Gay’s 100m performance at the 2007 USA Outdoor Championships in Indianapolis (into a headwind of .5 mps) is the second-fastest ever run into a headwind, trailing only 2000 Olympic gold medalist Maurice Greene, who ran 9.82 into a -0.2 headwind at the 2001 World Championships in Edmonton. Gay’s performance shattered the USA Outdoor Championships meet record of 9.90 held jointly by former world record holders Greene and Leroy Burrell. During the 2005 World Outdoor Championships, Gay finished fourth in the men’s 200m final joining Justin Gatlin (1st), Wallace Spearmon (2nd) and John Capel (3rd) as the U.S. became the first country in World Outdoor Championships history to sweep the top four places in an event. As a prep standout in Kentucky, Gay was the state champion in 1999, 2000 and 2001, and posted prep best times of 10.46 and 21:23. Gay was named 2004 Mideast Regional Athlete of the Year. A marketing major while at Arkansas.

About Marquise
A jack-of-all-trades, Marquise Goodwin not only does it all, he does it all very well. After just his sophomore season for the University of Texas, Goodwin qualified for the 2011 IAAF World Championships. After returning from Daegu, Goodwin made a quick transition back to the football field for his junior season as a wide receiver for the Longhorns. In three seasons, Goodwin has made 16 starts along with catching 91 passes for 975 yards and three touchdowns. Competing for Rowlett High School (Rowlett, Tex.), Goodwin twice was selected the Texas Gatorade Track & Field Athlete of the Year while winning a total of seven Texas 5A state championships (long jump (3), triple jump (2), 4x100m (2)). Competing as a high school senior in the senior division at 2009 USA Outdoors, Goodwin set the national high school record in placing fifth (8.18m/26-10). Goodwin also won both a USA Junior and World Junior title. Passing on his remaining jumps in prelims and the final, he took just one jump to win the USA Junior Outdoor title in 2009.

About Ryan
Heading into the 2012 Olympic Games, Ryan Hall becomes an American contender for a medal in the marathon. Hall has numerous American marks already to his credit including the American half marathon record and Olympic Trials record. He also posted the second-fastest marathon time ever by an American of 2:06.17 with his fifth place finish at the 2008 London Marathon. Hall ran 2:08:24 in his debut marathon in 2007. It was the fastest ever debut marathon time by an American. He went from prodigy to American record holder in a span of a few years. He became the first American to break the one-hour barrier in the half marathon and broke Mark Curp’s record, which had stood for 21 years, by more than one minute. He ran the fastest time by an American at the 2006 World Cross Country Championships in Japan, placing 43rd. As a prep standout, Hall ran the third fastest high school time ever in the 1,500 meters of 3:42.70. The California state champion, Hall held the second fastest high school 1,600m time of 4:00.52 in the country. Wife Sara (Bei) Hall is also an elite distance runner, who won the 2011 Pan Am Games steeplechase. The Halls are active with charitable groups such as Team World Vision. They worked on a campaign in 2008 entitled, “More Precious than Gold,” that raised nearly a million dollars to help bring clean water wells and irrigation systems to poor communities in Zambia.

About Trey
A two-time World Outdoor gold medalist, Trey Hardee’s personal best of 8,790, which he set in Berlin in 2009, currently ranks behind just Ashton Eaton, Dan O’Brien and Bryan Clay in the event in American history. It was also the highest decathlon score at a World Championships since 2001. Hardee joins O’Brien (1991, 1993, 1995), Tom Pappas (2003) and Clay (2005) as the only Americans ever to win the world decathlon title. In the fall of 2011, Hardee had elbow surgery but made a quick recovery to compete in the 2012 Olympic Trials. As a senior at the University of Texas, Hardee was ranked second in the country after establishing a new NCAA record at the Texas Relays in 2006 of 8,465 points. Hardee also held the NCAA Indoor heptathlon record of 6,136 before it was beaten by Ashton Eaton in 2010. Hardee also owns the Mississippi State University school decathlon record of 8,041. In 2008 he fielded inquiries to try out for the NY Jets saying, “I guess I am the mold for what they’re looking for – tall, fast and I can catch a ball.”

About Dawn

Dawn Harper was considered by many to have a possible shot at a medal in the 100m hurdles final at the 2008 Olympic Games, but no one expected gold. In the women’s 100m hurdle final, with Lolo Jones hitting the ninth hurdle, Harper moved up to claim the win in a personal best 12.54. If the Olympic gold medal was the highlight of her career the 2011 World Championships bronze medal is a close second. In Daegu Harper was part of a pair of American 100m hurdlers to win medals along with a silver from Danielle Carruthers. She won her first national outdoor title and the women’s Visa Championship Series in 2009. The medal came after suffering a knee injury in 2010 after hitting a hurdle in practice. Since graduating from UCLA in 2006, Harper has been training under Bob Kersee in Los Angeles. A 2002 graduate of East St. Louis High School, she won six state titles there (three each in the 100m and 300m hurdles).

About Amy
After a heartbreaking 4th place finish at the U.S. marathon trials in January of 2012, Hastings set her focus on qualifying in the 10,000m and was successful in winning the U.S. Trials to make her first Olympic team. In her debut marathon in Los Angeles, Hastings finished second to become the eighth-best American marathoner of all time. She went on to place fourth at the Olympic Trials Marathon. Coach Terrence Mahon has dubbed her "Little Deena" due to the similarities of her racing style with Deena Kastor. She was a college teammate of 2012 U.S. Olympic marathoner Desiree Davilla.

After two years of junior college in Kansas, she joined the Louisiana Tech track team for her final two season of eligibility. Hayes is the first athlete from LA Tech to compete for the U.S. in the Olympics. The Olympics will be Hayes’ first trip outside of the U.S.

About Reese
A pillar of consistency, Hoffa has finished in the top five at the USA Outdoor Championships for ten consecutive years. You have to go all the way back to 2003 to find a time when Hoffa didn’t own one of the top ten throws in the world in either indoor or outdoor competition. At the 2009 World Outdoor Championships, five of the six throws Hoffa took would have won him the gold medal. In 2007 alone, he topped the 70-foot-mark a total of 10 times. He broke C.J. Hunter’s mark in establishing a new Pan American Games record in the shot put in 2003. A huge professional wrestling fan, Hoffa competed while wearing a mask at the 2004 Home Depot Invitational, dubbing himself the “Unknown Shot Putter.” Earned All-American honors four straight years competing for the University of Georgia. Hoffa also competed in football, baseball and wrestling in high school. He says his dream is to compete in a bear suit, being brought onto the track in a cage. He married Renata Hoffa on November 26, 2005.

Awards and Honors
American Record holder 5,000m
Notre-Dame record of nine All-America Honors (tied with the late Ryan Shay)

About Molly
Huddle’s most outstanding season came in 2010, where she progressed from breaking 15 minutes in the 5,000m for the first time to going on to run 14:44.76 to set an American Record. While in college she tied the late Ryan Shay for a Notre Dame record for a career total of nine career All-America honors. Huddle has been turning heads in the distance running world since her days as a high school standout winning national meets and even setting a national high school two mile record of 10:01. She did not run cross country until her senior year of high school. Her school did not have a cross country team, so she ran as a one-runner team coached by her father. She was undefeated during the regular season, set 12 course records and finished fourth at the 2001 Foot Locker Nationals. Is a huge Oprah fan and rarely missed an episode prior to the show going off the air. Paints her fingernails a different color the night before each race. Married to Canadian middle-distance runner and former Notre Dame teammate Kurt Benniger.

About Carmelita
After winning her first World Championships medal in 2007 (bronze), Jeter said she looked at it every morning and night to help give her motivation. Apparently it worked – Jeter came home from the 2011 World Championships with three medals. Jeter defended her 2010 100m Diamond League title in 2011 and added another by doubling in the 200m. Jeter came onto the scene in 2007 setting a then personal record in the 100m of 11.05 at the adidas Track Classic and then went on to qualify for her first World Outdoor Championships roster for Team USA. She has since gone on to become the second-fastest woman in history, behind only Florence Griffith-Joyner. Prior to 2007, Jeter was plagued with injuries from 2003-2005. Jeter is the first-ever U.S. Olympic Trials qualifier and Olympian to come from Cal State Dominguez Hills.

About Alysia

Montano was a standout college athlete who saw her Olympic dreams slip away at the 2008 Olympic Trials, but since then she has been on a roll winning three consecutive U.S. titles and earning a spot on the 2012 Olympic team. Montano had a breakout year in 2007 when she won the NCAA indoor and outdoor title and the U.S. Outdoor title. During her senior year in 2008, she looked ready to repeat her success, but a nagging foot injury caught up to her at the Olympic Trials and she exited the track after the first round in a wheelchair. After healing and gaining strength for a season at the U.S. Olympic Training Center,
Montano was back on her path to the top. With U.S. titles in 2010 and 2011, Montano also competed for the first time at the World Championships in 2011 where she finished fourth. Montano majored in theater and performing arts at the University of California at Berkley. Her first experience in track and field was tagging along with her cousins to track meets and running around the infield when she was too young to compete with the "big kids." Formerly Alycia Johnson, married her childhood friend Louis Montano on March 19, 2011. She’s known for running with a flower in her hair.

About Lolo

Jones had spinal surgery in 2011 exactly one year out from the 2012 Olympic final to correct a tethered spine. The spinal condition is believed to have been a factor in her string of recent injuries. She was the first woman ever to claim back-to-back World Indoor titles in the 60m hurdles while setting an American record in the process. Jones finished her career at LSU as a three-time national champion and 11-time All-American, where she ranks among the top-three all-time at LSU in both the 60m and 100m hurdles. Jones was named Gatorade Midwest Athlete of the year and holds the 100mH record for the state of Iowa (13.40). She is of French, African-American, Native American and Norwegian descent. Her given name is Lori. She considers speed off the final hurdle one of her greatest strengths. She was named 2008 Visa Humanitarian Athlete of the Year after donating her $4,000 in prize money from the Olympic Trials to a fund assisting Renee Trout, a single mother from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who was a victim of the Iowa floods. Jones' sponsors each matched Jones' $4,000 prize, bringing the total donation to $12,000. She also gave each girl on Theodore Roosevelt High School track team a pair of spikes and made a $3,000 donation to the school to repair the track and buy hurdles while in town for the Drake Relays. She is the most followed U.S. track & field athlete on Twitter.

About Meb
The 2004 Olympic silver medalist in the marathon, Meb Keflezighi has become a premier international name in American distance running. In addition to the records and Olympic medal, Keflezighi made history in 2009 by winning the ING New York City Marathon in 2:09:15. The win gave Keflezighi the USA Marathon Championship and his fourth national title of 2009, and he became the first American man to win in New York since Alberto Salazar’s 1982 victory in 2:09:29. He earned a total prize-money payday of $200,000. He also finished atop the USA Running Series rankings for 2009. It was his first victory in that event since 2002. His 20 km split of 57:52 became the new American record for that event, bettering Ryan Hall’s 57:54 set in 2006. At the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Keflezighi became the first American man since 1976 to win an Olympic medal in the men’s marathon, taking the silver at Panathenaiko Stadium crossing the finish line under a full moon. His medal at Olympic Stadium during the closing ceremonies, gave Team USA its 25th medal of the Athens Olympics - the most successful Olympics for Team USA track & field since 1992. His time of 2:09:53 in the 2004 New York City Marathon gave the U.S. its best men’s finish in New York since Bob Kempainen placed second in 1993. Born in Eritrea, Keflezighi (pronounced Ka-FLEZ-gee) and his family moved to San Diego in 1987. He is one of 11 children and applied for U.S. citizenship in 1997 not knowing if his native country of Eritrea would participate in the 2000 Olympics in Sydney. He lived in a village in Eritrea with no electricity, where his brothers hid in the bushes so they would not be forced to join the military to fight against Ethiopia. He became a U.S. citizen on July 2, 1998. He trains at altitude (7,000 feet) at Mammoth Lakes, Calif. His wife, Yordanis, whom he met at an Eritrean-American soccer tournament in 2004, gave birth to the couple’s first child, Sara, on March 8, 2006.

About Craig
Kinsley competed in both the javelin and the high jump during his time at Brown University. Kinsley uncorked a personal best throw of 82.31m/270-0 in 2012, which was the second best throw in the country through the Olympic Trials. That marks was good enough for the Olympic “A” standard and helped to punch his Olympic ticket. He makes his first Olympic team in London. Studying geology and economics at the Ivy League school, Kinsley was named an Academic All-American by the USATFCCCA and was also named the Northeast Region Field Athlete of the Year in 2010 by the same organization. A capable javelin thrower, he won the 2010 NCAA title by more than eight feet. At Fairfield Prep H.S. he was named all-state in the high jump, javelin and decathlon.

She has a background in alpine ski racing for 10 years that she attributes to her overall athleticism and fearlessness over the barriers. She becomes the third Colorado Buff to compete in the Olympic in the steeplechase while still in college, following her teammate Jenny Simpson in 2008 and joining her 2012 Olympic teammate Emma Coburn. Kipp was already enrolled in summer classes in July, but upon making the Olympic team she joked that she would need to rearrange her schedule. She is majoring in integrated physiology and psychology at Colorado.

Kitchens attended Clemson University from 2001-2005 where he was a three-time NCAA Division I All-American and a three-time ACC Champion. Uhl first gained notoriety in 2010 when she set the collegiate record in a world-leading 31:18.07 at the Stanford Invitational. It was then the sixth-fastest time ever run by an American. After graduating from Iowa State, Uhl joined Jerry Schumacher’s training group in Portland and began training with Shalane Flanagan. After finding some initial success in her first cross country season as a professional, Uhl struggled with injury and did not compete during the outdoor 2011 season. Uhl returned in 2012 and ran in the Olympic Trials alongside Flanagan who had already secured her spot on the Olympic team in the marathon. Formerly Lisa Koll, she married former Iowa State distance runner Kiel Uhl on September 10, 2011.

About Alfred
Over the past decade, Kruger has become one of the best throwers in the country. Backing that up are his four consecutive USA Outdoor titles in the hammer throw, six USA Indoor crowns in the weight throw and two trips to the Olympic Games in 2004 and 2008. Kruger’s coach, Jud Logan, knows a thing or two about success, as he is a four-time Olympian and the head of the Ashland Elite Club. “It was the biggest compliment in my life when Jud Logan recruited me (out of Morningside College),” Kruger said. “I would never be where I am without him. He is the master of getting you ready to go.” During his college years, Kruger was an NCAA Division II student-athlete at Morningside where he played football and was a member of the track & field team. In the fall of 2007, he married his wife Laura and they had their first child, Alfred George Kruger IV in August 2011.

About Erik

A prodigy in the high jump, Erik Kynard qualified for the 2008 Olympic Trials as a 17-year-old high school athlete. As a high school senior, Kynard won both the 2009 Nike Outdoor and Indoor Championships in the high jump with clearances of 2.22m/7-3.25 and 2.21m/7-3. To go along with those victories, he was also a two-time Ohio state champion in the high jump. After a successful career at Rogers High School in Toledo, Ohio, Kynard went onto Kansas State University to compete under the tutelage of head coach Cliff Rovelto. During his freshman year at Kansas State, Kynard posted a season best of 2.23m/7-3.75 to finish second at the Big 12 Indoor Championships. He improved dramatically as a sophomore – winning the NCAA Outdoor Championships. Kynard then placed third at the USA Outdoor Championships and punched his ticket to the World Championships in Daegu, South Korea. Kynard has six sisters and two brothers.

About Bernard

Bernard Lagat has nearly as many American records (seven) as he has wins in the Wanamaker Mile at the Millrose Games (8). In 2012 he etched his name next to Ethiopia’s Haile Gebreselassie as the only men to ever win three World Indoor titles in the men’s 3,000m. His 2010 season included becoming the first ever American to win both the 3,000m and 5,000m at the IAAF Continental Cup while setting the American record in the indoor and outdoor 3,000m and outdoor 5,000m. Lagat now stands alone in the Millrose Games record book with his eight Wanamaker Mile wins and surpassed Irish legend Eamonn Coghlan’s previous best total of seven wins. Lagat donated all his bonus earnings during the 2010 indoor season to the Haiti Relief Fund. In 2007 Lagat won the first ever gold medal by an American in the 1,500m at the World Outdoor Championships and the first Olympic or World Championships gold for the country since 1908. He also became the first man ever to win the 1,500m-5,000m double at World Outdoors, and the first American to win a World Championship medal of any kind at 5,000m. And in winning both races at the 2006 USA Outdoor Championships, he becomes the first man ever to pull off the historic double. In 2006 Lagat posted the five-fastest 1,500m times by an American. He also had the fastest 3,000m and 5,000m times that season in the country. Lagat won a pair of 1,500m Olympic medals for his native Kenya before changing his national affiliation to the United States. A U.S. resident since 1996, Lagat officially became eligible to compete for the United States one day after the start of the 2007 World Outdoor Championships. “I thought long and hard before changing my nationality but... I have to look to my future after my running career has come to an end,” Lagat said. In growing up on his family’s farm in Kapsabet, Kenya, Lagat ran a mile and a half to school each morning, and the same distance back. He began studying at Jomo Kenyatta University College of Agriculture and Technology when he became serious about running competitively. Lagat left Kenya for the United States when he received a scholarship from Washington State University in Pullman. He earned BA’s from Washington State in Management Information Systems, and Decision Science (Econometrics). Married to Gladys Tom and they have one son (Miika Kimutai Lagat) and one daughter (Gianna).

Persistence paid off for Lewis-Smallwood who in 2011, made her first international team after competing in the discus on the national level for 11 years. One year later she made her first Olympic team in 2012. Even though Lewis-Smallwood finished 6th at the U.S. Trials, she had the Olympic A standard necessary for a spot on Team USA’s roster. She surpassed the A standard of 62 meters earlier in 2012 at the Wailuku Challenge. 2010 was a breakthrough year for her, she improved her PR by more than two meters, and won her first silver medal at the U.S. championships. Lewis works part-time at the YWCA and with the Parkland Community College volleyball team.

About Lopez
The U.S. delegation flag bearer during the opening ceremonies at the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing, Lopez Lomong has overcome an overwhelming array of obstacles in becoming a top American middle distance runner. When he was six years old, in 1991, his family fled Kimotong, Sudan, on foot to avoid an attack by the militia group, the Janjaweed. Lomong and his family ran for three days in the African wilderness to avoid the attackers. After being separated from his family upon arrival at the Sudan-Kenya border, he lived in a refugee camp run by Catholic missionaries for 10 years. Despite being separated from his family as one of the “Lost Boys of Sudan,” Lomong says he is considered one of the lucky children as thousands of boys drowned, were eaten by wild animals or were shot by military forces. An essay that he wrote in 2001 about what he would strive to accomplish if he lived in America prompted officials to give him that chance. Lomong was moved to the U.S. to live with a foster family in Tully, N.Y., and became one of the 3,800 resettled youngsters known as the “Lost Boys of Sudan.” Lomong became a U.S. citizen in July 2007, while becoming a star middle distance runner at Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff. Lomong, who turned pro after the 2007 NCAA Cross Country Championships, has fulfilled his dream to represent the USA in international competition, his way to thank those who have helped him. “I came to this country without expecting anything,” said Lomong to USA TODAY. “Now I want to return the favor by being a good runner.” Away from the track, Lomong, who enjoys hip-hop music, studied hotel management because he hopes to return to Africa to help revitalize the continent’s tourism. He also wants to assist families confronted with multiple challenges in his home country.

About Chaunté
Lowe’s high school coach didn’t want her to try the high jump because he wanted to keep her in the sprints. Little did he know that she would go on to become one of the best high jumpers not only in the U.S. but also the world. Thankfully, Lowe (née Howard) was able to convince her high school coach to let her try the high jump. After moving across the country to study at Georgia Tech and train with jumps coach Nat Page, Lowe was able to realize her childhood dream of going to the Olympics at only 20-years-old, making her the first woman from Georgia Tech’s track and field team to become an Olympian. The following year, Lowe won silver at the 2005 World Championships to become the first American woman to win a world outdoor championships high jump medal since Louise Ritter won bronze at the inaugural event in Helsinki in 1983. Lowe is always a crowd favorite with impossibly defined abs, dramatic dance moves and even the occasional back flip. Lowe graduated from Georgia Tech with a degree in economics and Finance. Married triple jumper Mario Lowe on August 21, 2005, and gave birth to daughter Jasmine in July 2007 and Aurora in April 2011.

About Tianna
Through 2008, Madison was known as one of the top long jumpers in the U.S. with a world outdoor title, a world indoor silver medal, and two NCAA titles to her name. But in recent years, Madison has become a fixture on the track, and in 2012 she fully cemented her status as a top sprinter with a USA Indoor 60m title, World Indoor bronze medal, and her first Olympic berth after finishing second at the 2012 Olympic Trials. After a successful career at the University of Tennessee, Madison moved to Los Angeles and then made her way back to the south to train with Rana Reider and transition her talents from the long jump runway to the sprint straightaway. Madison was a standout high school athlete and was named the 2003 Gatorade Ohio High School Girls Track & Field Athlete of the Year. She had nine career state championships, including seven in individual events and became only the third athlete in Ohio history to win four events at a state championship meet two years in a row, in 2002 and 2003...joined former Zanesville Rosecrans star Susan Nash (1983-84) and Cleveland East Tech/U.S. Olympic legend Jesse Owens (1932-33) on that list.

About Tony
McQuay’s career as a sprinter took off during his time at Suncoast High School where he ran the 100m, 200m and 400m. In his high school years, he captured the FHSAA state title in the 400m (as a senior) and set two school records in the 200m and 400m. McQuay set the 200m record with a time of 21.53 to overtake a record that was previously set by Devin Hester of the Chicago Bears. He also managed to set Suncoast’s record in the 400m (46.84) to claim a record that was once set by DeJuan Morgan, an NFL defensive back who has played for the Chiefs, Colts and Jets. While McQuay had a knack for breaking high school track records that once belonged to professional football players, he also spent time on the gridiron. The speedster was named most outstanding wide receiver, most improved defensive back and best all-around player at Suncoast High School.

About Aries
After an outstanding career at the University of Tennessee, Merritt in the last several years has been steadily climbing the professional ranks. He decided to forgo his senior season to pursue a professional career in track & field. Merritt left Tennessee with 14 total school, meet or facility records, including every high hurdles school record, in his possession. He finished the 2006 college season undefeated in every 55 hurdles, 60 hurdles and 110m hurdles race he finished, including prelims and finals, for a record of 18 wins in 18 complete races. In 2006, he broke the 24-year-old Univ. of Tennessee school record of Willie Gault and the SEC meet record (13.29) of two-time Olympic silver medalist Terrence Trammell. Merritt won the 110m hurdles at the 2006 NCAA championships in 13.21 seconds, breaking Greg Foster’s NCAA meet record of 13.22 in 1978 and lowering his own school record (13.22)—only National Track & Field Hall of Famer Renaldo Nehemiah from the University of Maryland has ever run faster at the collegiate level (13.00, May 6, 1979). While at Tennessee he won the Ed Murphy Award (for most outstanding performance) and Most Valuable Track Athlete Award in 2005. As a prep star in Georgia, Merritt was one of only eight hurdlers nationally named to USA Today’s All-USA High School Team. During his senior year of high school, he went undefeated in the 110 hurdles. Merritt won the 2003 Georgia state 5A title in the 110m hurdles and took runner-up honors in the 300m hurdles. He also received Best Performance trophies at the 2003 5A Georgia state championships for running a 13.76 in the 110m hurdles and 36.71 in the 300m hurdles at the state meet.

About LaShawn
LaShawn Merritt served a 21-month suspension and returned shortly before the 2011 World Outdoor Championships where he won a silver medal, narrowly missing the gold and anchoring Team USA to gold in the 4x400m relay. In 2008 took a major step forward in his career in winning a pair of Olympic gold medals in the 400m and 4x400m. He blistered the field in the 400m to win by 0.99 seconds, which was the largest margin of victory in an Olympic 400m final since 1896. The rivalry he created with three-time Olympic gold medalist Jeremy Wariner became one of the most compelling in the sport. In 2008 Merritt and Wariner combined for the top 16 400m times in the world. In 2007 Merritt became the ninth man ever to break the 44-second barrier in the men’s 400m. As just a high school senior, he ran what was then the second-fastest indoor 400m time ever of 44.93. That time remains a World Junior record. Merritt turned pro as an 18-year-old after his freshman indoor season at East Carolina.

About Maria
Michta caught the Olympic bug when she watched Kerri Strug stick her vault landing at the 1996 Olympics, and while she first thought that soccer was her calling, she began to excel at the race walk while in high school. Since then Michta has been a steady figure on Team USA’s race walking squad as she had competed on four continents and in eleven countries. Michta graduated from Long Island University CW Post as the valedictorian with a degree in biology; she missed commencement for the 2008 World Cup. She is currently pursuing her PhD in Microbiology at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine. Michta took a six month leave of absence from graduate school in 2012 to focus on the Olympic Games. Michta’s birthday is also celebrated as “Olympic Day” and falls on the anniversary of Title IX being recognized.

About Derek
When he’s not competing in the Olympic Games or claiming USA championships, Miles can be found coaching at his alma mater, the University of South Dakota. He is currently in his 10th season as an assistant coach, working primarily with pole vault and jumps. Miles had a successful college career in both athletics and academics. In his time as a Coyote, he competed in pole vault, hurdles, long jump and the decathlon. The standout pole vaulter finished runner-up in the NCAA Division II Championships as a senior. Following completion of his undergraduate degree in history, he earned his master’s in athletic administration in 1998—both degrees are from South Dakota. When Miles isn’t pole vaulting or coaching pole vault, he spends his time flying through the air in another way. His favorite hobby is paragliding, something that he picked up from fellow pole vaulter and training partner Tye Harvey. Miles married his wife Tori, who is also a South Dakota grad, in 2004.

About Georgeanne
A junior at the University of Arizona, Moline earned a spot on Team USA for the London Olympic Games after taking second place in the 400-meter hurdles. She clocked a personal-best time of 54.33 and broke her own school record for the fourth time in the 2012 season. Her time of 54.33 is the fourth-best time in Pac-10/12 history. Moline was on course for an undefeated 2012 season when she fell in the NCAA Outdoor Championships 400m hurdles prelim, costing her a berth in the final. In her first three years at the UA, Moline battled a stress fracture in her right tibia, a sprained disk in her lower back and a pulled posterior cruciate ligament. Moline battled back by doing pool workouts and strength training. An Arizona local, Moline was highly recruited but chose Arizona for head coach Fred Harvey’s extensive knowledge of the hurdles. Her hobbies outside of track include dancing and volleyball.

When doctors told Bryshon Nellum he would never return to a world-class level of running, he kept pushing forward. Stunned after he was shot three times in the legs after leaving a party near the USC campus, Nellum went through three surgeries to slowly remove the damage and began the process of recovery. Though the recovery was slow Nellum’s drive paid off when he finished third in the 400m at the Olympic Trials in a personal-best 44.80 seconds and earned a berth on the London Olympic team. Nellum is a redshirt senior at the USC. He is a Public Administration and Social Service Professions major. He graduated from same class at Buchanan high school as Olympic teammate Kyle Alcorn who is competing in the steeplechase.

About Jamie
Jamie Nieto qualifies for his second Olympic team after winning his second Olympic Trials. Over the past two years and at 35 years old he has proven he is one of the nation’s best men’s high jumpers. Nieto had a strong season in 2008 highlighted by his runner-up finish at the Olympic Trials in Eugene, Ore. However, Nieto did not qualify for a spot on the Team USA roster for Beijing because he did not clear the Olympic “A” qualifying standard of 2.30m/7-6.50 during the designated time frame prior to, or during the Trials. Nieto’s best clearance in 2008 of 2.30m/7-6.50 happened on July 12 following the Olympic Trials. It was his best performance since clearing that identical height in 2005. Nieto enjoyed a breakthrough year in 2003 with his win at the U.S. Outdoor Championships. He’s only gotten better, winning the 2004 Olympic Trials and taking fourth at the Olympic Games in Athens, with a personal best clearance of 2.34m/7-8. Ranked among the top 10 U.S. jumpers since 1998, Nieto had never been ranked higher than 4th – or finished higher than 4th at the USA Outdoor Championships – before winning the 2003 national title, his first national crown on any level. In 2003, he equaled his then personal best of 2.30m/7-6.50 on three occasions – at the USA Championships, in Madrid and at Eberstadt, Germany...also in 2003 Nieto posted six of the top eight clearances by an American that season...Nieto had found success on the college level, three times earning All-America honors, but his brightest days are ahead of him ... moved to Chula Vista to live at the Olympic Training Center ... Nieto is coached by Cliff Rovelto of Kansas State, and he also works with Joe Radan, whom he calls his “mentor” ... earned an Associates of Arts degree, bachelors of Business Administration.Nieto’s budding acting career includes featured roles in the movies The Encounter and Jerusalem Countdown.

About John
Nunn makes his second Olympic team after also qualifying in 2004. He qualifies in 2012 at the 50 km distance. In 2005 posted a seasonal best performance with his 30th place finish at the World Outdoor Championships in Helsinki, Finland. Nunn was first exposed to race walking as a youngster by members of his family who participated in the sport. Although he hated the activity during that period, his performance at a Foot Locker Cross Country Regional attracted interest from collegiate race walking power, the University of Wisconsin-Parkside. Having never competed in race walking, Nunn accepted a scholarship offer from the school to compete as a race walker. After one year at Parkside, Nunn went on to serve a two-year mission (November 1997-Nov. 1999) in Las Vegas for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. During that two-year stint, Nunn was forbidden from watching television, listening to the radio or reading newspapers and magazines, while spreading the word of the church. When asked what news issue that shocked him the most following his mission Nunn replied: “I’d have to say it was the whole Monica Lewinsky thing with President Clinton,” he said. “The entire country was wrapped up in that and I knew nothing about it.” Nunn was an Eagle Scout at the age of 13. He enjoys woodworking in his spare time and runs a gourmet cookie business with daughter Ella.

About Brittney
Just once since her elite career started has Brittney Reese not recorded the farthest long jump in the country for either indoor or outdoor competition. Along with a string of four straight World Indoor and Outdoor Championships gold medals, Reese has recorded the farthest jump in the world outdoors in 2009 and 2011. Also active in the community, during the 2011 Thanksgiving season, Reese purchased 100 turkeys to be given away to help the homeless surrounding her hometown of Gulfport, Miss. Only Jackie Joyner-Kersee and Marion Jones have jumped farther in American history in the long jump. At Gulfport High School Reese was Mississippi’s 2004 Gatorade Player of the Year for track.

About Sanya

Long ranked the world’s best 400m runner, Sanya Richards-Ross in 2009 won an elusive world title and looks fitter than ever in 2012 and in search of her first 400m Olympic gold. In early 2012, she set four world-leading times over 200 and 400 meters in her first three competitions of the season and won her second 400m world title at the Indoor Championships. At the 2012 U.S. Trials she tied the Trials record of 49.28 set by Chandra Cheeseborough in 1984. She has been an imperative leader on the four-time World Championship and two-time Olympic gold medal 4x400m team. Considered one of the world’s fastest women, she has the most sub-50 second 400m races in history. She didn't lose a race in the 400m between the 2005 World Outdoor Championships and the 2007 USA Outdoor Championships. It was a stretch that included breaking 50 seconds nine different times and setting a new American record at 48.70, which also ranked No. 7 on the all-time world list. At just 18 years of age, Richards-Ross won 400m titles both at NCAA Outdoors and USA Outdoors along with running a leg on the World Championships gold medal 4x400m all in 2003. Named Visa Humanitarian of the Year in 2005, her namesake charity, the Sanya Richards Fast Track Program benefits children in need in her native Jamaica. Created in 2007, the program combines literacy, numeracy and promotes an active and healthy lifestyle through sports. She also participates in USATF’s Win with Integrity and awards a scholarship in her name. She married her college sweetheart, Aaron Ross, a two-time Super bowl Champion cornerbac with the New York Giants, who recently signed with the Jacksonville Jaguars on February 26, 2010, on her 25th birthday. The wedding was featured on the television show Platinum Weddings.

About Dathan
The former American record holder in the 5,000m, Ritzenhein was the top finishing American in the men’s marathon at the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing, finishing in ninth place in 2:11:59. Just prior to the 2004 Olympic Trials, Ritzenhein incurred his third career stress fracture in his foot. Despite the pain, Ritzenhein competed at the Trials and ended his 10,000m race in Sacramento in 22nd place, fully breaking his foot in the process. Having already secured the “A” qualifying standard for the Olympics, Ritzenhein earned his spot on the team when Meb Keflezighi decided to only compete in the marathon at Athens, and Bob Kennedy was unable to finish his Trials race due to a sore Achilles. Ritzenhein owned the American 10 km collegiate record (27:38.50), four Big 12 Conference titles (2003 cross country, 2004 indoor 3,000-m, 5,000-m and outdoor 5 km), four All-American titles (2001, 03 cross country, 2004 indoor and outdoor 5 km), the 10,000-m school record (27:38.50) and the nation’s only undefeated cross country season in 2003 to capture his first and only NCAA crown. During 2003-2004, he won the Pre-National Invitational, Big 12 Cross Country Championship, NCAA Mountain Region Championship, and NCAA Championship just 10 weeks after resuming training following a femoral stress fracture to cap off the nation’s only undefeated season (792-0). During the outdoor campaign, he finished sixth at the Stanford Invitational in an Olympic Trials “A” Standard, American Collegiate Record and 31-year CU School Record 27:38:50 in his first-ever 1k on the track. Decided to forego his collegiate eligibility to turn pro during the summer of 2004. Dathan married Kalin Toedebusch on June 30, 2006.

About Khadevis

Few things have been as consistent as the presence of Khadevis “KD” Robinson in the 800m at the USA Indoor and Outdoor Championships. His combined eight USA Indoor and Outdoor titles make him one of the best 800m runners of his era. Robinson cruised to a runner-up finish at the 2011 USA Outdoor Championships to qualify for his seventh World Outdoors team. Robinson was part of one of the most dramatic moments in Olympic Trials history at the 2008 meet when he and Christian Smith desperately dove at the finish of the 800m final, vying for the third Olympic Team spot. Smith finished in third place with Robinson in fourth. In 2006, for the first time in his career, Robinson was ranked in the top ten in the world by Track & Field News (#7). Each season since 2004 Robinson has run a time among the top ten in the country and six times one of the top two times in the country. Robinson was so dominant in the U.S. in 2006 that he posted 11 of the top 12 outdoor times by an American that season. Robinson earned his degree from Texas Christian in social work. He was a football standout in high school but broke his wrist in football his junior year. He felt he needed to have another sport to list on his college application, so he tried track. Loves to play chess. Qualified for the 2001 World Outdoor Championships team by having “A” standard, when higher finishers at U.S. Nationals did not have “A” standard. He serves as assistant coach at UNLV mentoring middle and long distance runners. Has one son Zion, born October 20, 2007.

About Mike
Rodgers has found some of the better results of his career competing at the Nike Prefontaine Classic. In 2011, Rodgers ran a personal best time at the meet and was the second fastest by an American that year. In 2009, he bested a field while included former world record holder in Jamaica’s Asafa Powell. Rodgers won NAIA individual titles competing for Oklahoma Baptist and owned the top 60m time in the world in 2011. He was dangerously close to quitting the sport before meeting his current coach, Darryl Woodson, while ordering a hot dog at the 2007 USA Outdoor Championships, who convinced him they should work together.

About Jarred
Rome didn’t start to take throwing seriously until he injured his knee during his senior year of high school football, but he developed into a six-time All American thrower at Boise State University by the time he graduated in 2000. The two-time Olympian lives and trains at the Chula Vista Training Center, but also finds time to serve as the Head Throws Coach at Mesa College in nearby San Diego. Rome also hosts several coaching clinics throughout the year as well. Outside of the throwing circle, Rome holds an MBA, has spent time working as a substitute teacher and enjoys camping, hiking, mountain biking and fishing. Rome appeared in a photo spread in Vanity Fair magazine prior to the 2008 Olympics where he hoisted couture wearing supermodels over his shoulders. He can bench press more than 175 percent of his body weight with a best of 550 pounds, and can squat more than 225 percent of his body weight with a best of 704 pounds.

About Galen
A high school prodigy, Rupp matured into a three-time national champion, an American record holder and Olympian. His time for the Oregon Ducks was highlighted by a sensational senior season where he won five NCAA titles and the inaugural Bowerman Award, which signifies the men’s and women’s national track and field athlete of the year. While at Oregon, he joined up with teammates Matthew Centrowitz, Andrew Wheating and Shadrack Kiptoo-Biwott to set the outdoor collegiate 4x1-mile relay record of 16:03.24. Also as a Duck in 2009, he became the first person in NCAA history to win the 3,000m, 5,000m and the distance medley relay at the same indoor championships. Outdoors the same year he won the NCAA 5,000m and 10,000m championships. In just 2007 alone he was a seven-time NCAA All-American (twice outdoors, four times indoors and once in cross country). Married to Even Keara Rupp.

About Jeremy
Believed to be the tallest world class pole vaulter in history, Scott stands at 6 feet 9 inches tall. His breakthrough 2009 season got off to a great start with his win at the USA Indoor Championships in Boston, and he broke the 19-foot barrier for the first time in his career with his winning clearance June 14 in Jonesboro, Ark., when he cleared 5.82m/19'-1.25. A letter-winner in three sports in high school (football, basketball and track) Scott enrolled at Allegheny College to play football. After a broken foot as a sophomore caused Scott to focus more on pole vaulting, he decided to enroll at one of National Track & Field Hall of Famer Earl Bell’s pole vault camps in the summer of 2001, and the improvement was immediate. In only the third meet of the 2002 season Scott cleared 17 feet for the first time, which was a then personal best by five inches. The following week he cleared 5.36m/17 feet and by the end of that indoor season he cleared 18 feet for the first time and had won his first NCAA D-III national championship. Scott enrolled in a graduate program at the University of Arkansas for his final year of collegiate eligibility where he studied exercise science. Scott’s nickname is El Grande. He received BS in Neuroscience from Allegheny College in 2003.

About Jenny
Simpson’s career as an elite international caliber athlete started early in her collegiate years. In only her sophomore year of college Simpson won her first USA Outdoor title and went on to compete at the World Championships. Her rise to stardom continued as a junior when she qualified for the first Olympic women’s steeplechase where she finished ninth and set the American Record. From there she exploded on the national and international scene with her eye-bulging finish at the 2009 Prefontaine Classic in a collegiate record of 3:59.90 and a 5th place finish and another American record at the world championships. And while Simpson’s smooth ride to success was detoured by injury in her first year as a professional, she came back in the biggest way to win the 1500m gold medal at the World Outdoor Championships in 2011. A political science major at Colorado, her hobbies include playing piano and she serves as an interpreter as she is fluent in sign language. Her volunteer work includes participating in local adopt-a-road programs, Habitat for Humanity projects as well as volunteering at the Ronald McDonald House. Formerly Jenny Barringer, she married her husband Jason Simpson on October 18, 2010.

About Amanda
After Smock failed to make the Olympic Team in 2008, her father crossed "2008" off of his credential and added "2012." While Smock's father passed away after the 2008 Trials, Smock has kept that memento hanging in her closet and looks at it every day. Her father would certainly be proud as Smock won the 2012 Olympic Trials and had the needed Olympic B standard to punch her ticket to London. In 2011, Smock was won the USA Outdoor Championships, but was just shy of making the needed B standard for the World Championships. Days before the World team was announced, Smock jumped a personal best to secure the mark and make her way to Daegu. Smock has worked as a partner in a small company that specializes in corporate wellness programs. Married to former college teammate Greg Smock. Smock will celebrate her 30th birthday on the day of London's Opening Ceremonies, July 27.

About Duane
A veteran of a pair of World Indoor Championships team (’10, ’12) and the 2007 World Outdoor Championships team, Duane Solomon finally punched his ticket to his first Olympic Games in the 800m. The 1:44.65 he ran to place third at the Olympic Trials was a big personal best for Solomon. A sociology major with a heavy interest in the music production industry, Solomon graduated from the University of Southern California in 2008. Solomon has spent a good portion of his career as one of the top 800m runners in the country. Over the past three seasons he has claimed a pair of USA Indoor titles along with USA Outdoor and USA Indoor runner-up finishes. He also claimed the NACAC U23 title in the 800m when he was just a sophomore in 2006.

About Wallace
Spearmon started 2012 on a high note, running 19.95 in the 200m en route to a first place finish at the Bobby Lane Invitational in Arlington, Texas. This was the 22nd time the sprinter has went sub-20 in the event, the same number of times that Usain Bolt has went sub-20. Spearmon and Bolt are just two sub-20 times short of tying Frankie Fredericks who has the most all-time at 24 and one shy of Michael Johnson, who has recorded 23 times under 20 seconds. During the 2008 Olympic Games 200m final in Beijing, Spearmon came roaring back from a slow start to finish third in 19.95 seconds, but was later disqualified for a lane violation, running on the inside line. Spearmon proved his versatility in 2007 by ending the season ranked in the top ten in the world by Track & Field News for the first time in the 100 meters (#10) and posting a personal best in that event of 9.96 seconds in Shanghai. His personal best time of 19.65 makes Spearmon the fifth fastest American of all time. He won a silver medal at the 2005 World Outdoor Championships as Team USA swept the top four spot with Justin Gatlin (gold), Spearmon, John Capel (bronze) and Tyson Gay (fourth). He established the American 200m indoor record twice at the 2005 NCAA Indoor Championships by running 20.21 in the semifinals before lowering it to 20.10 in the final. He was a three-sport standout at Fayetteville HS, where he played basketball and wide receiver in football for two years. He earned all-state honors in the 100m, 200m, 400m, long jump, triple jump, high jump, 4x100m and 4x400m relay teams. He also competed in the decathlon and 300-meter hurdles. Spearmon’s father, Wallace Sr., was a two-time All-American for coach McDonnell at Arkansas and was a part of Arkansas’ first national championship team in 1984 as a sprinter. He was a 200m bronze medalist at the 1986 Goodwill Games and 1987 Pan American Games and competed for Team USA at the 1987 World Outdoor Championships in Rome, Italy.

About Jenn
Suhr has become the face of the second-era of women’s pole vaulting in the U.S. After Stacy Dragila paved the way in the late 90’s and early 2000’s, Suhr has become the dominant force in U.S. vaulting since 2006. Suhr has set an American record in the pole vault more than a half-dozen six times and owns the current marks both indoors and outdoors. In 2011 she was diagnosed with Celiac disease, which accounted for her constant fatigue and cramps; however, by altering her diet she was able to return to her form and ended the season ranked #1 in the world by Track & Field News. She was a standout basketball player for Roberts Wesleyan College in Rochester, N.Y., before taking up the pole vault in 2004. Suhr averaged 24.3 points and 6.7 rebounds a game for Roberts Wesleyan in 2003-04, taking her team to the NAIA championship game. She graduated as the school’s all-time leading scorer with 1,819 points and the school record-holder in the 100mH, javelin, high jump and 400mH. She only took up vaulting during her junior year and went on to win the 2005 NAIA indoor national title in the pole vault her senior year. It made her 2005 USA Indoor champion all the more impressive. She also won the state pentathlon title as a senior at Fredonia High School. During college, she transferred from Roberts to Buffalo briefly, before returning to Roberts to complete her degree. Married coach Rich Suhr on January 3, 2010.

About Nick
In 2009 Symmonds became the first American to make the men's 800m final at the World Championships since Rich Kenah won the bronze medal and Mark Everett finished eighth in 1997. Symmonds duplicated that performance again in 2011. He qualified for his first Olympic team in 2008 at Hayward Field in one of the most memorable races of the Trials. A native of Boise, Idaho, Symmonds won seven NCAA Division III titles competing for Willamette University. Competing for the Oregon Track Club Elite, Symmonds worked to open the Tan Republic tanning salon.

About Jeneba
Tarmoh was involved in the much publicized dead heat in the women's 100m at the 2012 Olympic Trials. She and training partner Allyson Felix were clocked in identical times and the race was ruled a dead heat. Tarmoh first turned heads at the 2011 USA Championships where she took third in the 200m to punch her ticket to her first senior World Championships. Tarmoh was not far behind second-placer Carmelita Jeter, with only five-hundredths of a second separating the pair. After her success at the U.S. Championships, Tarmoh decided to forgo her senior year of eligibility at Texas A&M and sign a professional contract. Tarmoh helped Texas A&M win the team title with her runner-up finish in the 200m and her contributions to both relay squads. Tarmoh won gold at the 2010 NACAC U-23 Championships in the 100m after first tasting success at the 2008 World Junior Championships. Tarmoh made her first international team at 16-years-old.

About Angelo

Taylor’s career as an elite athlete spans well over a decade, and in that time he has won more than 18 national and international championship medals. After he had a few off years in the mid-2000s he was working full-time as an electrician in addition to training. However, after he returned to the top with his 2008 Olympic gold, he was able to pick up sponsorships once again and return his focus to training. Taylor’s success on the track started at a young age. In addition to numerous state tiles, in 1996 Taylor won his first international hardware as he finished third at the World Junior Championships. In 1998, Taylor ran the fastest-ever time for a 19-year-old in the 400H. If he had been born two days later, his 47.90 at the 1998 USA Championships would have been a world junior record.

In 2000, Taylor won Olympic gold just four years after graduating from high school, at age 21. Both his parents ran, and his father played football at Albany State (Ga.). Taylor is the father of twin boys, born November 2004, Xavier and Isaiah, who often accompany him to the training track.

About Matt
The American record holder in the two-mile, Tegenkamp joined Bob Kennedy, Bernard Lagat and Dathan Ritzenhein as the only Americans ever to break 13-minutes in the 5,000m. Tegenkamp surprised many by placing fourth in the 5,000m at the 2007 World Outdoor Championships, which propelled him to a year-end world ranking (#10) by Track & Field News for the first time in his career. With fellow American Bernard Lagat ending the season ranked #4 globally, it marked the first time since 1985 that two Americans ended a season ranked in the top ten in the world at 5,000 meters. Tegenkamp graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 2005 where he struggled with a series of injuries throughout his collegiate career. After Tegenkamp missed the 2003 cross country season with yet another injury, Wisconsin coach Jerry Schumacher changed his training regimen, emphasizing shorter, more frequent runs.

About Aretha
Thurmond has been among the top, and most consistent, American throwers for the last 10 years. Thurmond has been on five World Championship teams and four Olympic teams. Thurmond returned to the top of the podium after having a child in spring of 2007, winning her fourth career national title and second Olympic Trials crown to make her third Olympic Team. In addition to winning her first U.S. discus title in 2003, Thurmond proved her dominance over other U.S. women’s discus throwers by posting nine of the top 11 throws by Americans that season. Not bad for someone who embarked on her track career on a lost bet. She had wanted to play softball in high school, but her physical education teacher wanted her to go out for track. They made a bet that if he could beat her in one-on-one basketball, she would give up softball. He won, and she kept her part of the bargain. She went on to win three state discus titles. Coach Ken Shannon says that Thurmond can be the first American to throw 70 meters (229-8). She says that after a breakthrough 1996 campaign put her on the Olympic team, she pressed too hard in 1997. She was a member of the Project 30 Task Force and is a current member of USATF’s Board of Directors. Is an advocate for women’s fitness and health. Mother to son Theo.

About DeeDee
Trotter is on her third Olympic team after competing as one of the nation's top quarter milers for nearly a decade. At the 2008 Olympic Trials, in perhaps the most astounding story of the women's 400, Trotter finished third in 50.88. She was running with a broken bone chip in her left leg, the result of an errant car door closing on her two months ago. Trotter has parlayed a standout high school career running the 100m and 200m into an immensely successful career at 400 meters. In 2005 she won her first USA title in the 400 with a dominant performance of 52.01 to post the fastest time at the USA Indoor Championships since Jearl Miles-Clark ran 51.97 to win in 1999. She attended two high schools: Cross Keys High School and Cedar Grove and was a four-time letter winner in track and field and basketball. Trotter is the founder of Test Me I'm Clean, a charity that focuses on fighting the abuse of steroids and other performance enhancing drugs. While at Tennessee she majored in criminal justice. Some of her hobbies include singing, dancing and watching movies. She is the daughter of Debra Holden and Tony Trotter and has two brothers, Yohan Trotter and Ian Jones. Is known for wearing glitter and face paint while competing, which Trotter calls her "war paint." Her given name is De'Hashia Trotter.

About Morgan

Uceny burst onto the international scene in 2011 when she was ranked as the top 1500m in the world by Track and Field News. Uceny’s No. 1 ranking was the first for an American in 28 years since Mary Decker Slaney took top honors in 1983. While Uceny dominated the Diamond League, she was unable to enjoy the World Championship podium as she fell in the final of the 1500m and was knocked out of contention. Before Uceny discovered her talent in the 1500m, she specialized in the 800m during her career at Cornell University. After a promising prep career in Indiana, where Uceny won the 800m her senior year, she struggled during her first year of college and was not able to make the varsity squad. But by the time she graduated, she was a four-time All American and set seven school records. Uceny grew up in Plymouth, Indiana where she cared for goats and steers in 4H. In the summers she would help her father working on his masonry crew. Uceny is known for wearing a bright multi-colored plastic necklace during her races.

About Brad
One of the best in the world for many years, Brad Walker currently holds the American outdoor record in the pole vault. He set that in 2008 at the Nike Prefontaine Classic with his clearance of 6.04m/19-9.75, which was also the top clearance in the world that year. The four-time World Championships medalist won 2006 USA Indoor men’s pole vault title, but faced a great deal of adversity at the World Indoor Championships in Moscow when he fell and hit his head outside the pit during a practice attempt prior to the qualifying round. He went on to qualify for the final and won it with a clutch seasonal best clearance of 5.80 meters/19-0.25 on his third attempt at that height. He was a recipient of the Pac-10 Medal, awarded to the top male and female student-athletes at each Pac-10 institution. He captured the NCAA indoor pole vault title with a vault of 5.80m/19-0.25 that was nearly nine inches beyond his nearest competitor, and equaled the winning mark at the 2003 IAAF World Indoor Championships. Walker became the first athlete in Pac-10 history to clear 19 feet, breaking by three inches the previous Pac-10 record of 5.72m/18-9.25 set by Stanford’s Toby Stevenson in 2000. He finished the indoor season tied with American Derek Miles and France’s Romain Mesnil for third in the 2003 IAAF World Rankings, and tied Miles for the best indoor vault by an American in 2003. In outdoor competition in 2003 he saw his bid for an NCAA Championships double dashed by broken hand just days prior to the NCAA West Regional meet. He is regarded as Washington’s best vaulter since Brian Sternberg, who in 1963 broke the world record twice before injuring himself in a training accident. As a prep star he led University High to consecutive state track and field championships in 1998 and 1999. He was 1999 regional and district pole vault champion and finished second at the state meet. He also lettered in football and was a business administration major.

About Jeremy
Wariner has won a total of three Olympic gold medals and five World Outdoor Championships gold medals. In 2008 alone, Wariner joined with teammate LaShawn Merritt to record the top 16 times in the world in the 400m. His personal best of 43.45, which he ran to win a gold medal at the 2007 World Outdoor Championships in Osaka, Japan, makes him the third fastest man in history. It was the fastest time run in the world since Michael Johnson set the world record of 43.19 in 1999. A total of five times in his career (2004-2007, 2010) he recorded the fastest 400m in the world according to the IAAF performance list. In 2006, he broke the 44-second barrier three times, and posted the five fastest times in the world that season. Wariner joins fellow Americans Lee Evans, Michael Johnson, Harry “Butch” Reynolds, Larry James, Quincy Watts, Danny Everett and Steve Lewis as the only athletes in history to break the 44-second barrier. The then 20-year-old Wariner shocked the world with his gold medal winning performance at the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens. With his win in his then personal best time of 44.00, Wariner became the youngest gold medalist in the event since 19-year-old Steve Lewis won in 1988 and posted the fastest time in the world since Michael Johnson in 2000. He also broke Johnson’s Baylor school record. With Wariner placing first, followed by fellow Americans Otis Harris and Derrick Brew in second and third place, respectively, the U.S. got its first sweep in the 400 since 1988. Earlier in 2004, Wariner captured NCAA titles in both the indoor and outdoor 400 meters, setting stadium records at each championship. Wariner also led the Baylor 4x400-meter relay to a pair of national titles, setting an NCAA indoor record at 3:03.96. Wariner lettered in track and football at Lamar High School in Arlington, Texas, where he set school records in the 200m, 400m and 4x100m relay. A member of the 2002 USA World Junior team, Wariner is a three-time junior All-American in the 400m. He turned professional after the 2004 Olympics. His nickname of “Pookie” is embroidered on his racing spikes. He loves to watch the Food Network and owns a St. Bernard.

About Kellie
Crossing the line in second place, Wells made her first Olympic team after suffering a heartbreaking injury at the 2008 Olympic Trials where she was unable to compete in the finals due to a hamstring tear. Wells made an impressive comeback in 2011 by winning her first outdoor and indoor national titles, and dominating the top marks lists. Wells’ winning time of 7.79 at the 2011 USA Indoor Championships was the No. 1 time in the world for the year, and at the time gave her the nine fastest times in the world. In the summer of 2011, Wells also went public with another heartbreaking struggle she faced – being sexually abused by her mother’s boyfriend. Wells moved out of the abusive house in the 10th grade and a few weeks later her mother passed away in a car accident. Wells unknowingly drove past the accident site on her way home, not realizing her mother was in the wrecked car.

2008 NCAA Outdoor 800m runner-up (1:45.32)

About Andrew
Running a head taller than most of his competitors, Andrew Wheating has become a fan favorite in the 800m and 1,500m competing for the Oregon Track Club Elite. Primarily an 800m runner in college, Wheating bumped up to the 1,500m and in 2010 ran a 3:30.90 in Monaco. It was a personal best for Wheating of nearly seven seconds and the fifth-fastest time in the world that year. In the 800m final at the 2008 Olympic Trials in front of his home crowd in Eugene, Wheating was a part of one of the more memorable finishes in Olympic Trials history when Christian Smith dove across the finish line to make it a clean Oregon Track Club Elite sweep with Nick Symmonds, Wheating and Smith, respectively. Wheating ran only one track and field season and two cross country seasons in high school for legendary coach Jeff Johnson and focused on soccer in years prior. He competed in the 800m for first time in 2007 and ended the outdoor regular season ranked ninth nationally among freshman (1:50.17). In his debut collegiate cross country season in ’07 he earned All-Pac-10 Second Team laurels for his top-14 league finish. In his first season of track and field in 2006, he ranked fourth nationally in 1,500m with his personal best of 3:54.48 from the USA Junior Championships.

About Jesse
Jesse Williams has spent a majority of his career being ranked in the top 10 in the world and forever put his stamp on the high jump with his gold medal at the 2011 World Outdoor Championships. It was the first high jump medal by an American man at the World Championships since 1991 and the first global medal since Charles Austin won the 1996 Olympic Games. He qualified for his first World Championships team in 2005; the same year he turned in a clutch performance at the DN Galan Meet in Stockholm when he set a then personal best performance of 2.30m/7'-06.50. As he cleared the height on his second attempt, the public address announcer exclaimed "Welcome to Helsinki!" (the site of the 2005 World Outdoor Championships). Competing for Broughton HS in Raleigh, N.C., Williams set the state indoor and outdoor high jump records. He was fourth at the 2002 World Junior Championships. He also long jumped, hurdled and wrestled in high school and was fifth at the North Carolina state wrestling tournament as a senior.

About Rachel
Yurkovich first developed as a three-sport star in high school where she competed in softball, volleyball and threw the javelin on the track team. Yurkovich was offered a dual track/volleyball scholarship at the University of Oregon and competed in both sports her freshman year before concentrating exclusively on the javelin. After her freshman year, her career as an elite javelin thrower took off with wins at NCAA’s USA Juniors, Pan Am Juniors, a third place finish at the 2008 Olympic Trials. In 2009, she became the first American woman to qualify for the javelin final at a World Championships since Karin Smith finished 10th in 1983. She went on to finish 12th. Her high school coach Joe Boutin also coached 1984 Olympian Lynda Hughes and fellow 2012 Olympian Cyrus Hostetler. Appeared in the ESPN Bodies issue in 2010.
